Grooveshark

When Time magazine chose its 50 best websites of 2010, Grooveshark was among them. "With one of the most complete libraries of any music site ... users are able to create and save their own playlists or rely on ... Grooveshark Radio for song recommendations, clicking happy-face and sad-panda icons to rate their approval. Free never sounded so good." Grooveshark also made PC World magazine's 10 Sites That Will Matter in 2010: "If Grooveshark's growth over the past two quarters is any indication of its trajectory in the new year, 2010 should be a groovy time for the young music site. What's the hook? You can go to Grooveshark and play, for free and in reasonably high fidelity, pretty much any song you can think to search for."
