

ESPN

Temperature Management System

ESPN discussed air-cooled shoulder pads developed by UF and Williams Sports Group in Jacksonville in a story about football players and heat injuries. "The Gators tested the pads in '05, and now use the system regularly on the sidelines in high heat. South Carolina, NC State, UCLA, Georgia Southern and the NFL's Jaguars and Dolphins are among those who own the TMS."

Inventors Fred Williams and Nikolaus Gravenstein

